

THE WRAP

SSC MEETING KEY HIGHLIGHTS: Sept 15, 2022

Cultural Safety and Humility

An update on Joint Collaborative Committee Cultural Safety and Humility initiatives was presented to the SSC. On September 8, a Truth and Reconciliation Ceremony was held, during which a symbolic art piece by Rain Pierre was unveiled. This art piece is now available for all physicians to display in their offices. Future initiatives include, longhouse sessions, compassionate leadership cohorts, surveys to gain insight into what type of learning opportunities physicians are seeking, and webinars.

Dr Kamran Golmohammadi and his colleagues from the First Nations Health Authority provided an update on FNHA strategic priorities, and SSC discussed opportunities to collaborate. A representative from the SSC will represent the interests of community and facility-based specialists at the Cultural Safety & Humility in Primary and Community Care Provincial Working Group.

Decisions

The SSC co-chairs approved an MOH request to provide onetime funding of $28,615 for the Provincial Gastrointestinal (GI) Endoscopy Advisory Committee (GIEAC) for the 2022/23 fiscal year. The approval was made outside of the committee meeting.

Physician engagement

Adrian Leung and Asia Hollingsworth presented an overview of potential SSC engagement events and activities for the 2022/2023 fiscal year. The aims were to determine areas of focus, support linkages between SSC and Shared Care, and explore how networks can be developed and leveraged to achieve system impact. Two events are being considered for the 2022/23 fiscal year: The Specialist Symposium and the PQI Summit. $500,000 has been allocated, under the SSC and PQI budgets respectively, for each of these events. A steering committee comprised of physicians will be formed to guide the direction of events.

Facility Engagement

Cindy Myles updated the SSC on the strategic goals of Facility Engagement and asked the committee to review PSC direction, validate criteria for decision-making process, and provide direction on next year's key priorities.

Physician wellness

Donna Murphy-Burke updated the SSC on the Joy in Work initiative. The presentation included information on how Doctors of BC is supporting physician wellness at a system level, locally, and individually. The Committee accepted the recommendation that an IHI collaborative approach to supporting Joy in Work was not a good provincial fit, and that instead the team would consider how to integrate a joy at work approach to SSC's initiatives. In addition, $14,000 was approved to support phase 2 of a group of Public Health Physicians with their Public Health & Preventive Medicine Initiative. The funds will be utilized to fund engagement work with other public health programs. The SSC has provided $30,000 total toward this initiative.

Digital Health Strategy

Dawn Lake presented on Doctors of BC's digital health strategy. The MoH gave an overview of the Connected Health System, a group of initiatives aimed at digitally connecting healthcare providers, patients, and systems across BC, enabling secure clinical information sharing and access. SSC discussed whether DoBC will centralize the 30 different EMRs.

EDI workshop

Dr Faisal Khosa updated the SSC on feedback received on the SSC's July's Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion workshop. The results were largely positive. The SSC recommended another session incorporate information on how burnout affects different groups. A second session has tentatively been scheduled for June 2023.

Breakout session: Priority planning

Breakout sessions were held to discuss key priorities for the 2023/2024 year. Notes were taken and will be integrated into the development of the workplan, to be presented in November.

Welcome & Farewells

The SSC welcomed new representatives Dr Paul Johar (FHA) and Kevin Samra (MoH), and thanked departing members Dr Dayan Muthayan (FHA) and Dr Peter Gajecki (Doctors of BC) for
